Statistics Courses Satisfying Prerequisite Requirement:

I took a statistics class in the Psychology department of my university. Would this class meet your statistics prerequisite?

Often times, statistics is offered through different departments other than the Math Department. For example, the class you are asking about probably has a title like “Psychological Statistics.” You will be taught the basic methods of Statistics—applying mathematical treatment to collected test data for the purpose of ascertaining its significance. In the case of Psychological Statistics, you will be applying Statistics to data collected from a psychological testing sample.

Biological Statistics is also acceptable to fulfill the pre-requisite requirement.
